Q&A

Morris Chestnut

The actor's new show* Rosewood *airs on FOX (8 p.m. on Wednesdays)

This is your first prime-time starring role. Nervous?

Right now, I'm just focused on putting in the work!

Speaking of work: Tell us about that shirtless jog we saw in the teaser!

I had to talk to the writers because I was taking my shirt off in, like, every episode. I told them I want to eat some donuts!

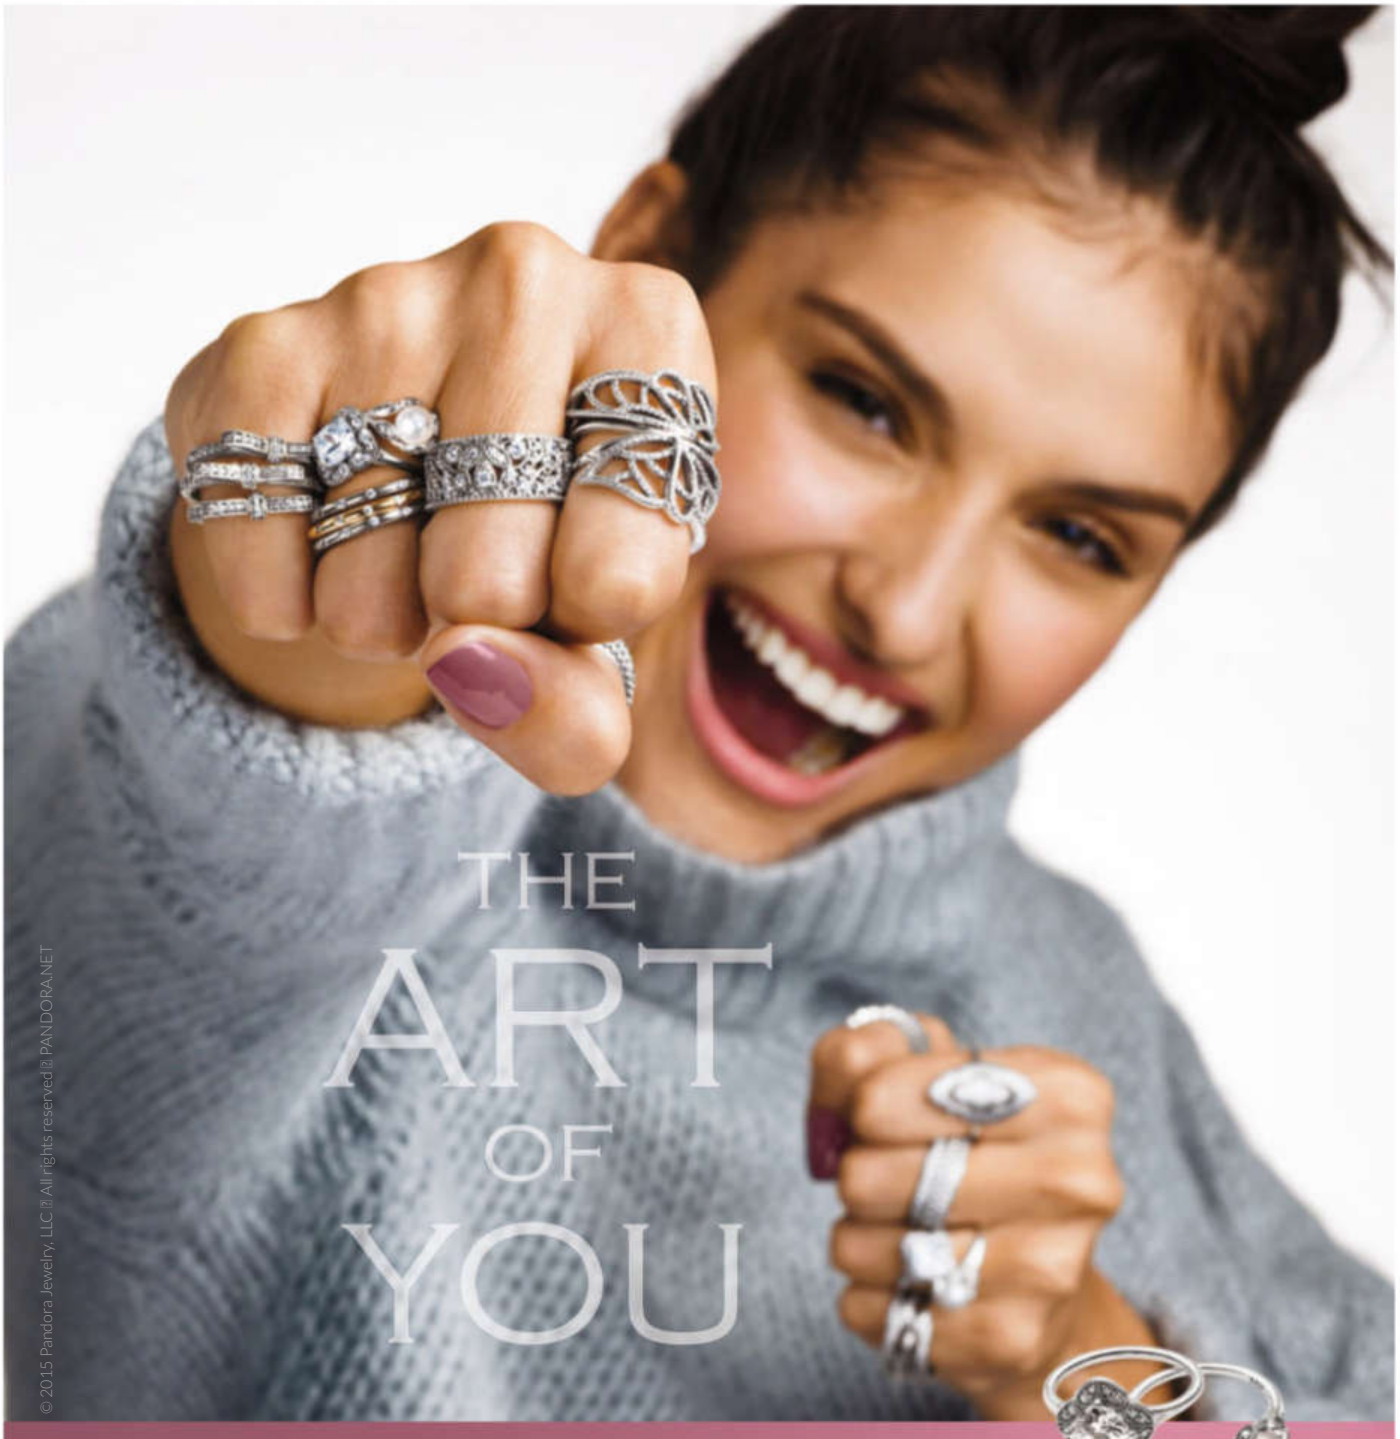

What about when you're not working?

Before this job, I'd wake up on Sunday, go to the gym and then watch football all day. My wife loved it because she'd go shopping—she could sneak an elephant into the house, and I wouldn't even notice!

A look at Pope Francis as he makes his first visit to the U.S.

'He is a breath of fresh air for the Catholic world!' Marge Miller via e-mail

Pope Francis

I can't explain it, but reading your coverage of Pope Francis brought tears to my eyes. I'm not Catholic (or even Christian), but I believe Francis is the perfect example of how humans should treat one another. And that gives me hope.
Nora Novak Sylmar, Calif.

I love the fact that one of his favorite things is the tango. Maybe Dancing with the Stars should bring him on the show next season.
Toni Waltz Port Charlotte, Fla.

The smile on my face was enormous when I saw your cover. Pope Francis truly appears to "walk the talk" of unconditional love and forgiveness. May his life inspire us all.
Elizabeth Nelson via e-mail

I think Pope Francis is being true to the preaching of Jesus Christ—he's welcoming, nonjudgmental, humble, and he doesn't live in opulence.
Jennifer via people.com

Miss Piggy

I was very sad to read about Miss Piggy and Kermit's breakup. Miss Piggy will kill it with her career—it's Kermit I'm worried about. It's not easy being green.
Bobbie B. via e-mail

Terri Roberts

I think it is truly awe-inspiring that the Amish could extend such heartfelt forgiveness to Terri after her son murdered five Amish schoolgirls in 2006.
Barbara Full York, Pa.

Tyra Banks

Tyra Banks is just as beautiful without makeup as she is with it! I hope that her story and photographs will encourage young girls to realize that beauty is not always what's on the outside but, more importantly, what's on the inside!
Cynthia Brown Franklin, Tenn.

It's great to see someone so beautiful but who is not obsessed with forever looking young and perfect.
Lisa Smith via e-mail

Mindy Kaling

She's always so open about her feelings. I read her first book on a long flight and can't wait to get this new one.

People UPDATE

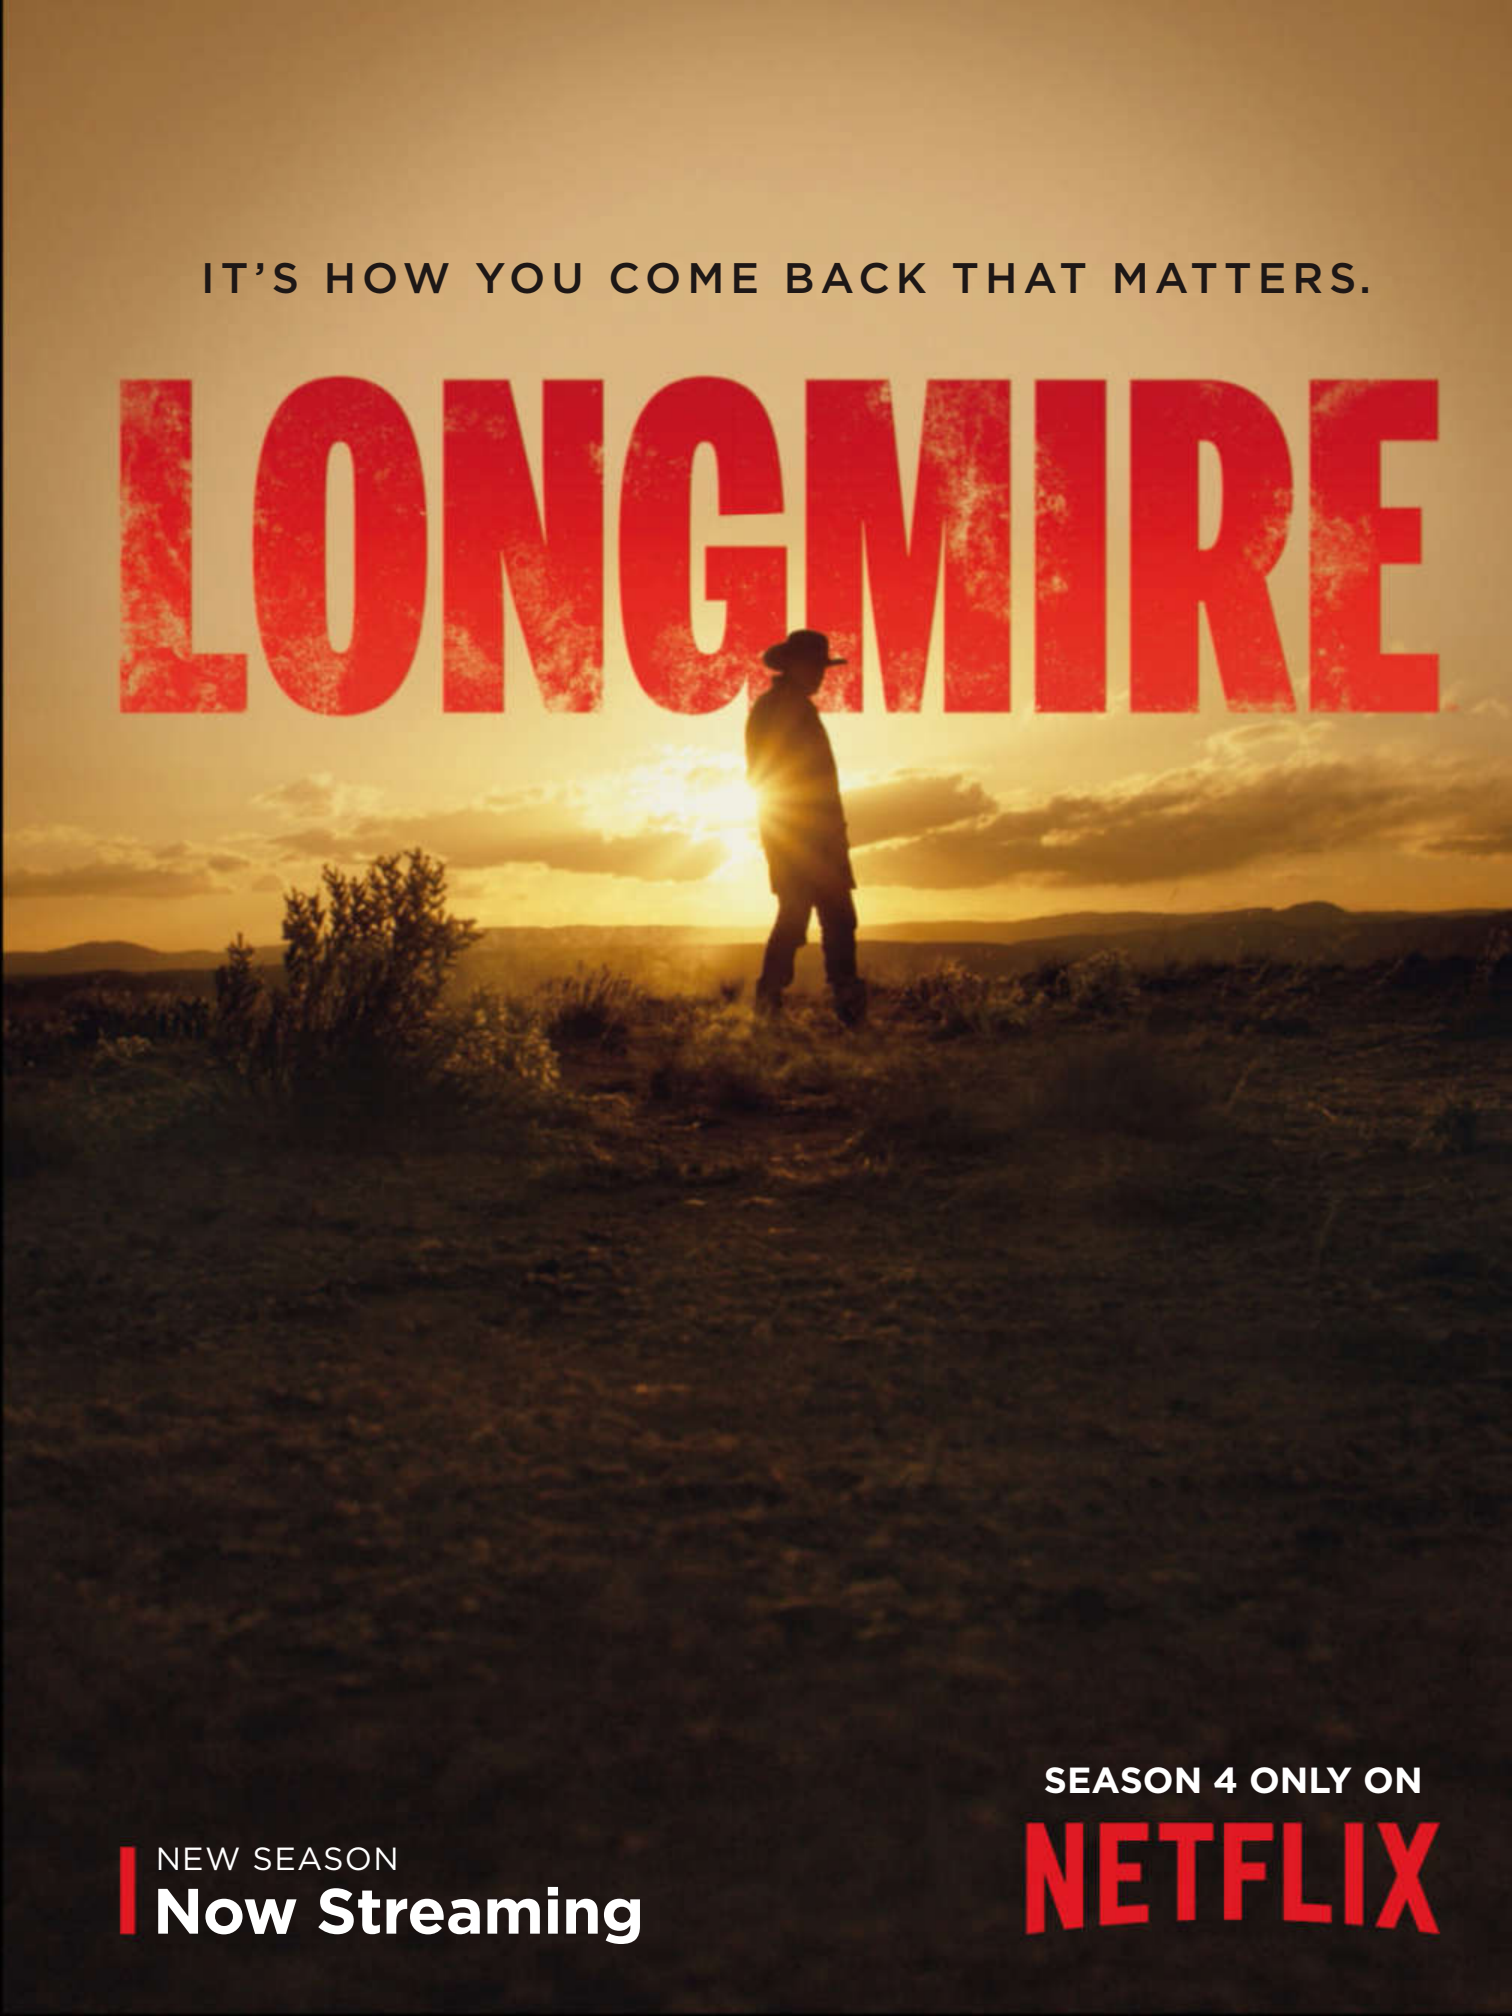

ROAD TO RECOVERY Gardner underwent two operations after the deadly attack.

TV Shooting Victim Speaks

Vicki Gardner, whom we first wrote about in our Sept. 14 issue, made her first public appearance since being released from the hospital after being injured during an on-air shooting that killed two journalists in Roanoke, Va. On Aug. 26 Gardner was being interviewed by WDBJ reporter Alison Parker when a gunman, later identified as former employee Vester Lee Flanagan II, opened fire on them. Gardner, 61, was hit in the back as she fled; Parker, 24, and cameraman Adam Ward, 27, died at the scene. On Sept. 19 Gardner, who is still recuperating, spoke at a memorial for Parker and Ward in Virginia. "We will not be defined by tragedy," she told the gathering of hundreds of well-wishers. "We are stronger than this."

Red Carpet Winners

TEMPERATURES REACHED 98 DEGREES DURING TV'S BIGGEST NIGHT ON SEPT. 20, BUT THESE STARS KEPT COOL WITH STANDOUT STYLES

RETRO
Emma Roberts
The Scream Queens star went for an "old Hollywood" look in custom Jenny Packham paired with Platt Boutique and Martin Katz jewels. "I'm dripping in diamonds!" she said.

ASYMMETRICAL
Julia Louis-Dreyfus
The Veep winner kept her look simple and chic in an understated one-shoulder SAFiYAA gown—the perfect basic black backdrop for 96.39 carats worth of Chopard diamonds.

OFF-THE-SHOULDER
Sarah Hyland
"I wanted my look to be monochromatic," the Modern Family actress said of her burgundy Zac Posen gown worn with coordinating Lorraine Schwartz and Ofira jewels. Even her mani matched!

EDGY
Taraji P. Henson
The Empire nominee decided on an Alexander Wang lace dress with chain-link straps after the designer accompanied her to the 2015 Met Gala in May. "I thought he should shine tonight," she said.

3-D SPARKLE
Kerry Washington
"I'm wearing a couture screen door," the Scandal star told People of her metallic mesh Marc Jacobs dress, which was straight off the runway from the designer's spring 2016 show on Sept. 17.

MODERN
Lady Gaga
Expecting a meat dress and sky-high stilettos? Not this year. Instead, the singer (and star of the upcoming American Horror Story: Hotel) went for a Grace Kelly-inspired gown by Brandon Maxwell.

GILDED
Sofia Vergara
The bride-to-be's custom St. John Knits shimmery champagne confection (worn with Lorraine Schwartz jewels) showed off her killer curves. "I've never worn a dress by them, but it's very elegant, no?"

SLEEK
Laverne Cox
The actress's custom teal Calvin Klein Collection dress with a sexy cutout detail added a welcome pop of color to a red carpet dominated by dark hues. "I feel amazing tonight," she said.

SPOTLIGHT ON

Party Pants

THESE SASSY STARS CHOSE ELEGANT ENSEMBLES THAT HAVE LEGS!

Sophie Turner
Instead of going for a Game of Thrones princess vibe, Turner chose a tough, grown-up Galvan jumpsuit with a plush cobalt bodice.

Tatiana Maslany
"I wish it was cutoff shorts by this point," the Orphan Black nominee said on the sweltering red carpet of her Bouchra Jarrar Couture suit.

January Jones
Bye-bye, Betty Draper! The Mad Men actress took a risk in a jade Ulyana Sergeenko Couture jumpsuit accented with a Tiffany & Co. diamond clip.

Carrie Brownstein
A tailored Stella McCartney tux replaced the Portlandia actress's onscreen hipster duds.

Kiernan Shipka
The Mad Men actress told People the cigarette pants that she paired with her Dior Haute Couture cutoff ball gown were "pretty comfy."

BEHIND THE DRESS

Ellie Kemper in Naeem Khan

THE STAR OF THE NOMINATED COMEDY UNBREAKABLE KIMMY SCHMIDT SERIOUSLY SPARKLED IN A FRESH-OFF-THE-RUNWAY GOWN

The Finishing Touches
Sapphire jewels by Lorraine Schwartz matched her Swarovski clutch and dark mani.

The Choices
"We called Naeem the minute nominations came out," Kemper's stylist Jessica Paster said. Just days before Emmy night, Kemper settled on a striped, beaded gown from Khan's Mediterranean-influenced spring 2016 collection. Khan says the fresh-but-timeless dress "reflects Ellie's personality."

The Gown by the Numbers
This ombré tulle dress, inspired by "the sunset on the blue sea in Capri," has "14 different shades of beads and sequins that were hand-sewn," Khan said. Just the beading alone took 12 craftsmen approximately 800 hours, but "it's not heavy," according to the designer. (In fact, he says, it only weighs 5 lbs.) The intricate look passed the ultimate test. "Ellie's lovely hubby [comedy writer Michael Koman] thought it was a work of art," said Paster.

Something's Missing!
The dress originally appeared on the runway with dramatic long sleeves, but "I knew it was going to be 95 degrees in Los Angeles and I was right," said stylist Paster. After two fittings the dress was perfect. "I'm really happy to be wearing it," Kemper said.

Uzo Aduba

THE ORANGE IS THE NEW BLACK STAR—AND SUPPORTING ACTRESS WINNER—LET PEOPLE INSIDE HER PREP PROCESS

The Mission

Makeup artist Janice Kinjo set out to complement Aduba's Jonathan Cohen gown with a classic beauty look, and hairstylist Vanessa Heshima Sims was inspired by Grace Kelly to pin her curls into a side chignon.

Stress-Free Session

"We're always listening to music. Today it was all Taylor Swift," says pro Kinjo. "When I'm putting makeup on Uzo, it doesn't feel like I'm working—it feels like I'm hanging out with a friend."

▼ Motions Versatile Foam Styling Lotion, $4.99; target.com

A Dash of Color, a Dollop of Mousse

Aduba matched her eye shadow to her dress. "I put a shimmery pink in the inner corner of her eyes," says Kinjo. Styling foam helped her hair hold up in the heat.

▶ SheaMoisture Wet/Dry Eyeshadow in Casandra, $4.99; target.com

The Selfie Send-Off

Although the glam squad was pressed for time ("I only had a minute to do her lip before she ran out the door!" admits Kinjo), they snapped photos. "We do it almost every time we work together," says Heshima Sims (far right). (Also pictured, manicurist Elsbeth Schuetz, rear.)

Inside the Emmys

THEY LAUGHED, THEY CRIED, THEY MADE HISTORY! HOLLYWOOD'S HOTTEST STARS PARTIED ON TV'S BIG NIGHT

Trailblazer
"I didn't know everyone wanted me to win it so badly," says Viola Davis, who became the first African-American to take home an Emmy for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Drama Series. "I'm on cloud nine."

Uzo's Moment
The first person since Ed Asner to win Emmys for both comedy and drama for the same role, Uzo Aduba thanks her sister Chioma in her speech: "She's been there for me through so much."

The Comeback Kid
"Only recently have I started to feel like myself again," presenter Tracy Morgan (with daughter Maven, 2, and wife Megan) said of his devastating 2014 car accident.

Jofia's Night Out!
Sofia Vergara and her fiancé, Joe Manganiello, were among the hot Hollywood couples on the red carpet. (For more on other offscreen couples at the Emmys, see page 38.)

Andy the MC
"It was so much fun, but I'm relieved it's over," Andy Samberg (left, with Seth Meyers honoring their onetime Saturday Night Live executive producer Lorne Michaels) said of hosting duties.

BLAKE SHELTON

THE TRUTH ABOUT HIS NEW LIFE

BLAKE SHELTON IS THE first to admit his summer wasn't exactly smooth sailing. "It's been a weird year," he told reporters before taking the stage at the iHeartRadio music festival in Las Vegas on Sept. 19. "Weird" might be a little bit of an understatement. After nine years of being one-half of one of country music's most beloved couples, Shelton is now navigating life as a single man since announcing his divorce from Miranda Lambert in July. "He's really been impressive," says a friend of the singer's. "He is still the person making everyone laugh."

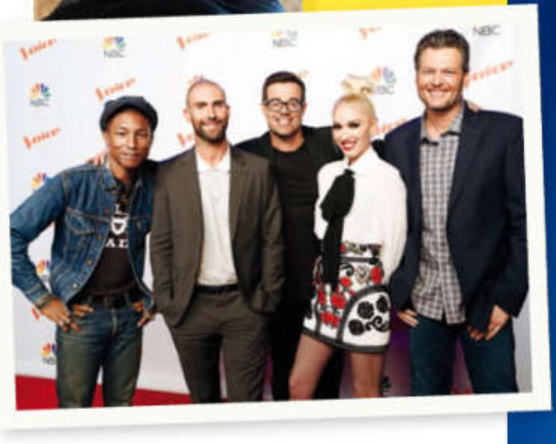

And despite a recent tabloid report that his friends are concerned about his drinking, those close →

Shelton's latest project, his greatest-hits album Reloaded: 20 #1 Hits, is out Oct. 23. Says a pal: "He's just in a really healthy place and taking care of himself."

SMALLZ & RASKIND/CONTOUR BY GETTY IMAGES

"Just found this in my hotel room. . . . God help the people on this floor tonight," Shelton (below, with Pharrell Williams, Adam Levine, Carson Daly and Gwen Stefani) captioned a photo of his mini-bar on Twitter.

to Shelton say he's doing just fine. While the singer, 39, often jokes about drinking at shows and on Twitter—and indeed enjoys sipping on Bloody Marys with Carson Daly during downtime on the set of The Voice—reports of any out-of-control partying, according to a source, are a result of "Blake having supersized this persona of him having fun and drinking. It's all in fun, and people shouldn't take his tweets so literally." Seconds the Shelton friend: "He's trying to have a sense of humor about all of it. He doesn't take it to heart."

Lambert Instagrammed a photo of herself at the MuttNation Foundation Cause for the Paws: Back to Basics fund-raiser in Texas on Sept. 19.

Currently shooting the ninth season of The Voice, Shelton splits his time between Los Angeles, Nashville and his beloved Tishomingo, Okla., where he still owns the ranch he and Lambert shared as a married couple. Between downtime at home, shooting the show, recording new music and performing, he squeezed in some good ol'-fashioned bro time in late August on a trip to Cancún with some pals. "Blake had a fun weekend and enjoyed his single life," says an insider at the ME by Meliá resort. "He had fun with girls and seemed to enjoy the attention."

But any thoughts of settling into another serious relationship are far down the road. "Blake has accepted the divorce, but he is not dating," says the Shelton friend. "He's open to another relationship in the future but just not now." Adds the source: "He just got divorced, so he's not thinking about that." The "Sangria" singer is also still friendly with Lambert, 31, who has been performing throughout the summer. "Blake has always respected Miranda," says the friend. "They both have been courteous. He supports her still." Now that he's on his own, Shelton has more time to take care of himself. One addition to his to-do list? Hitting the gym. "He looks fantastic," says the pal. "He's just in a really healthy place, focused on music, having fun and taking care of himself."

ROMANCE ROUNDUP!

HOLLYWOOD'S HOTTEST NEW HOOK-UPS—AND A SUDDEN SPLIT

NEW COUPLES!

Christie Brinkley & John Mellencamp

Christie Brinkley, 61, and John Mellencamp, 63, were all smiles when they hit the town together last week. On Sept. 14 the pair enjoyed dinner at the Bowery Hotel in New York City. Two days later, she accompanied him for his stop at The Late Show with Stephen Colbert, where he performed with Willie Nelson in advance of their Farm Aid concert. Afterward the pair grabbed dinner with pals at Chalk Point Kitchen. Says an onlooker: "The mood was great and happy."

Allison Janney & Philip Joncas

A brand-new Emmy award wasn't the only reason Allison Janey was beaming Sunday night. The Mom actress, 55, was accompanied by dashing beau Philip Joncas, 35. While it's unclear how long their romance has been brewing, he was a production coordinator on her 2013 film The Way Way Back.

Morena Baccarin & Ben McKenzie

Is Gotham the new City of Love? Morena Baccarin, 36, and Ben McKenzie, 37, have taken their onscreen Gotham romance off the set, People has learned. Baccarin—whose husband, Austin Chick, filed for divorce this summer after 3 1/2 years—began work on the FOX drama late last year and was spotted holding hands with McKenzie at an Emmys afterparty.

SAD SPLIT

Gina Rodriguez & Henri Esteve

After more than a year together, Gina Rodriguez, 31, and Henri Esteve have gone their separate ways, multiple sources confirm. "Gina really cared for him," says a Rodriguez pal. "She is a sweet person with a prosperous career, but she has limited time." There's no bad blood between the Jane the Virgin star—who was all smiles at the Emmys—and the Revenge actor. "It was a mutual split," says the friend. "They are still friends."

JOY BEHAR
STETHOSCOPE SCANDAL

Inset: Behar (far left) and her View colleagues Collins and Raven Symone met with nurses after mocking Miss Colorado's tribute to her profession.

MISS AMERICA CONTROVERSIES are nothing new, but the latest flap involving the 94-year-old contest became a serious problem for another institution: The View. Making fun of the contest's talent competition, View couchmates Joy Behar and Michelle Collins mocked Miss Colorado Kelley Johnson, who did a dramatic monologue about her career as a nurse. "Why does she have a doctor's stethoscope on?" Behar, 72, asked on a Sept. 14 episode. Cue a tidal wave of online outrage from nurses, Bachelor winner Nikki Ferrell among them, who flooded Twitter under the hashtag #NursesUnite. Behar and Collins apologized, and The View aired a segment on the honorable profession. But companies like Johnson & Johnson and Snuggle still pulled their ads. At least Behar has made it clear that she's learned her lesson. "One thing became abundantly clear to me," she said. "Nurses wear stethoscopes."

MACHINE GUN KELLY

The Cleveland rapper, 25—whose video for his latest single, "A Little More," has 5.3 million views online—has a growing legion of fans, but his 6-year-old daughter Casie isn't always impressed. "She's at the age now where she hates my job because she wants to see her dad all the time," says Kelly (né Richard Colson Baker). He adds that being a father influenced his second album, General Admission (out Oct. 16): "It gave me a whole new subject matter."

"He's my manspiration. I was trying to get ripped like him in Fight Club. I don't have it anymore—it was too embarrassing.

2 He was in a punk rock band called the High-Heeled Flip-Flops
"It was in seventh grade. We dyed our hair black and spoke in British accents. I didn't really date during that time period."

3 He has a soft spot for spiders and roaches
"I never kill anything. Spiders especially are pretty cool. I always go pick them up with a paper towel and bring it outside."

4 He met his wife in first grade
"Lauren and I went to the same school. We grew up together and know all the good and bad!"

CATCHING UP WITH... KIRSTEN DUNST

'IT'S ONE OF THE HARDEST ROLES I'VE EVER PLAYED. PEGGY GOES THROUGH A LOT OF EMOTIONS BECAUSE SHE'S A LITTLE NUTS'
—DUNST ON HER FARGO CHARACTER

Why did you want to join Fargo?
I read the first two episodes, and the description of my character Peggy was like nothing I've played. She's so delusional. Her behavior is not a normal way to respond to things. It was one of the best roles I had read.

What's the biggest difference between doing TV versus movies?
My friend [Masters of Sex star] Lizzy Caplan warned me about the hours for TV. She was like, "You are going to be exhausted. Get a B12 shot."

What will your boyfriend [Garrett Hedlund] think of your new role?
He'll get a kick out of it, and I think he is just going to laugh at me the whole time.

How did you prep to play Peggy?
I wanted her to look like I've been eating a little meat and potatoes. The next role I did was a film with my friends who do Rodarte [designers Kate and Laura Mulleavy], and I had to slim down a bit. I went on a program and got food sent to me. It was a lot of shakes and vegetables. I was miserable. I love food.

What foods did you miss most?
In-N-Out and pasta. I remember one night I got brown rice pasta and I was licking the plate.

Fargo* is shot in Calgary. Did you get to take in any of the sights?
It was winter and it was cold. I would binge-watch Friday Night Lights and order food in. But I did go to Banff with my brother, and we went dogsledding. It's their big ski-resort area, and it looks like the Swiss Alps. It's gorgeous.

What other shows do you binge on?
Nashville! I love a country drama and anything with Connie Britton. My friends and I were into Bachelorette in Paradise.

Did the cold climate make you want to go somewhere warm?
Yes, I went to Jamaica for five days! We stayed at this amazing hotel that had a lagoon side, so it's like you're swimming in your own lake. And it had a beach side, so it felt like you were on two different vacations. —MIA McNIECE

PERSONAL STORIES ABOUT GIVING BACK

Light, taping a PSA for the Flu + You campaign.

Judith Light

The actress, 66, helps educate older adults about influenza prevention

When you have the flu, it really is monstrous, and none of us can afford to get sick, miss work or pass it on to anyone else. The National Council on Aging came to me to work with the Flu + You campaign and help spread the word on a special vaccine for people 65 and older that most people do not know about. The immune system weakens as we age, and flu can be life-threatening to people who are mature. If you are a person who doesn't have a specific health-care provider, you can go into your pharmacy and say, "I know you're giving free flu shots. Do you have one that is specifically made for people who are 65 and older?" The annual flu shot is really the best way to keep the flu away. Don't lose your life over something that can be so easily handled.

A DOZEN COOL THINGS TO SEE, HEAR, READ AND DOWNLOAD THIS WEEK

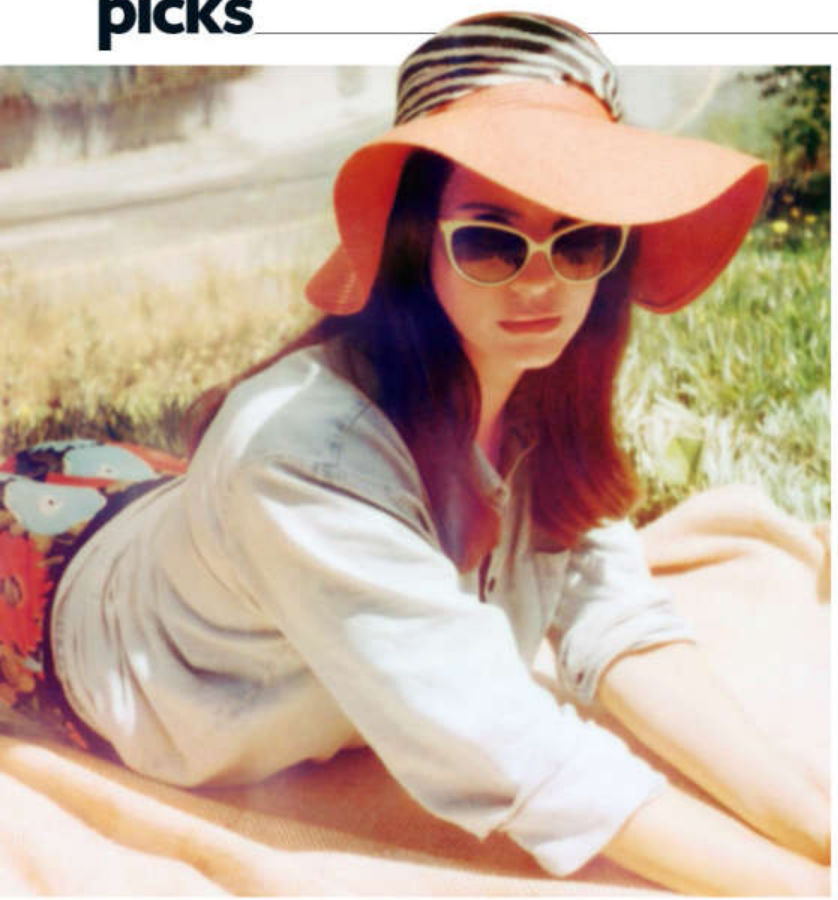

Stamos with Josh Peck as his son and Layla Golfieri as his granddaughter.

FOX/GETTY IMAGES

No. 1 Grandfathered

TV John Stamos is a playboy who has to play an unexpected new role—family man

COMEDY "I'm a 50-year-old bachelor," Stamos says in the first episode of one of the fall's best sitcoms. "We're worthless people." In the sense that no one should reach middle age and still be happy, dapper and carefree, this is hard-rock truth: Jimmy Martino—now that's a playboy's name—has a full head of well-styled, jet-black hair, a trendy restaurant that pays for a minimalist-chic apartment Tom Ford might be willing to sublet and no tiresome significant others or offspring. Then he learns that he's the father of an adult son from a long-ago fling—and that the kid comes with a kid, a cute baby girl named Edie. Grandfathered isn't far removed from traditional comedies about comfortably unencumbered men who have family responsibility, like greatness, thrust upon them (Stamos's Full House, getting a reboot from Netflix, was one). But the writing is sharp and quick, and so is Stamos. Played too smoothly, the role could drift into George Hamilton territory. But Stamos's eyes signal a very human warmth and curiosity. And are those crow's-feet? (FOX, Sept. 29, 8 p.m.)

No. 2 Lana Del Rey, Honeymoon

Summertime is gone, but her dreamy sadness is apparently here to stay

MUSIC POP Ever since she arrived in 2011 with "Video Games," Del Rey has often seemed to be singing from some remote, reclusive island, as if she were the world's loneliest mermaid on a Saturday night. On her moody new album, you can almost hear her pillow-lipped mouth forming a pout, whether she's cooing about another doomed romance over cinematic strings (the title track) or bidding adieu to another beau (the hypnotic "High by the Beach," her hookiest track since "Summertime Sadness"). It's a tranquilizer of an album: Add it to your playlist when it's rainy or you need a dirge for a breakup.

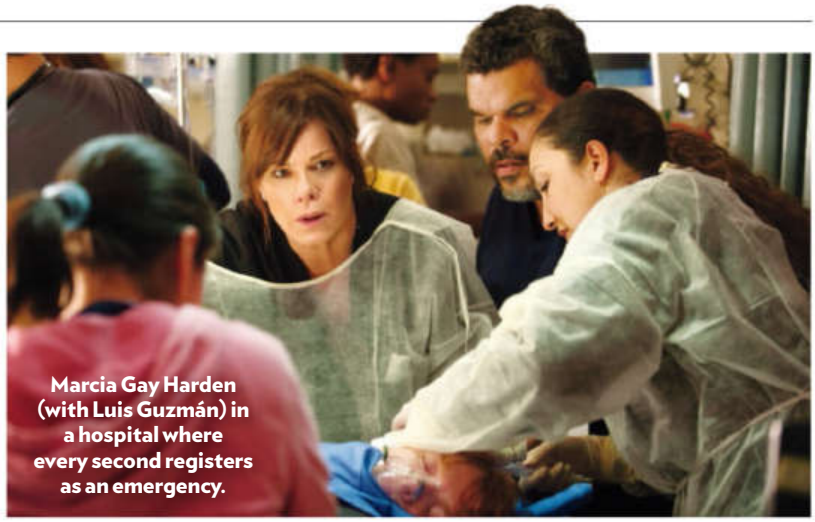

No. 3 YouTube Kids

APP The mix for the family-friendly video-programming app is getting a little starrier, with new playlists curated by YouTube celebrities (well, of course) and the likes of Oscar-winning actress Geena Davis. The gender-equality champ's first list—she'll be weighing in four times a year—will be all about girl power, with videos from Olivia the Pig, Sesame Street and more. (Free on iTunes)

Marcia Gay Harden (with Luis Guzmán) in a hospital where every second registers as an emergency.

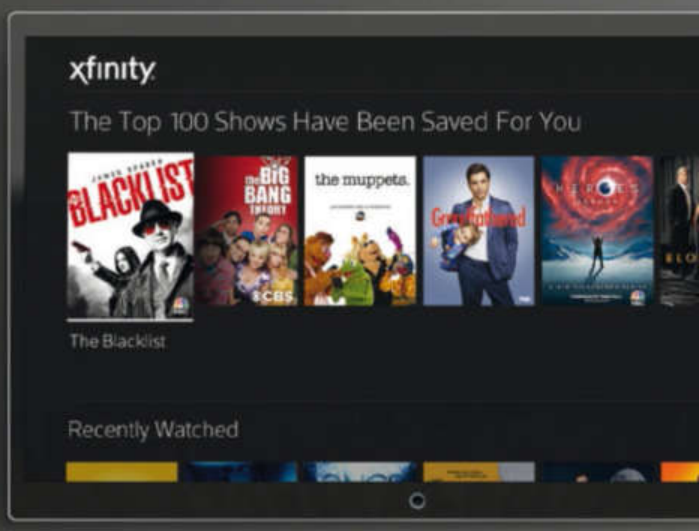

No. 4 Code Black

TV DRAMA Jessie Sallander (Luis Guzmán), emergency-room senior nurse, warns the new residents, "You are not under any circumstances allowed to kill a guest in my house." Poor guests: Within the space of five minutes, as a patch of expository dialogue sketches in the formidable personality and tragic history of director Dr. Leanne Rorish (Marica Gay Harden), 40 new patients have arrived. Black is one of the few medical dramas that really convey an ER's total disregard for feng shui—ugly lighting, a mess of machines—and the sense that time is both racing and hanging dead. Harden gives her role the correct doses of toughness and vulnerability. (CBS, Sept. 30, 10 p.m.)

No. 5 The Intern

Robert De Niro and Anne Hathaway work as a team

MOVIE COMEDY Making the case that the startup world could use real grown-ups, The Intern drops septuagenarian New Yorker Ben Whittaker (De Niro) into an online company run by Hathaway's persnickety Jules Ostin. The twist is that Ben is no fish out of water drowning in technogibberish—it's Jules who needs help. Granted, the film slathers on Ben's fairy-godfather perfection, and like all of director Nancy Meyers's projects, it's a white-privilege fantasy to beat the band. (There's nothing gritty about this Brooklyn.) But the charm is real, the jokes land, and, like a laptop keyboard, De Niro and Hathaway click. (Sept. 25, PG-13)

No. 7 Thomas Rhett, 'Tangled Up'

MUSIC COUNTRY The lead single is called "Crash and Burn," but Rhett's second album is more about the smoke, smolder and flame of the R&B that he loves. The title track is a funky ode to romantic entanglement that includes a touch of disco beat, and "South Side" is a booty-shaker that lives up to the anatomical reference in its lyrics. But Rhett slows the party down for the stand-out "Die a Happy Man," a sweet tribute he wrote to his wife, Lauren—it's a song to play while you're winding down on the drive home at night.

Is FBI recruit Priyanka Chopra (right) a traitor to her country?

No. 6 Quantico

TV DRAMA One of the few new fall shows with any real juice, Quantico is a mash-up of Grey's Anatomy and Homeland: At the FBI's training school in Quantico, Va., everyone is hypercompetitive, ripe for sex and capable of being the terrorist mole who—at the start of the premiere—has masterminded a devastating attack on New York City. The concept may sound silly, but who's to say the Islamic State couldn't find a recruit who looks hot in workout clothes? That's certainly true of the authorities' first suspect, Alex. She's played by Priyanka Chopra, a former Miss World. (ABC, Sept. 27, 10 p.m.)

LEGAL NOTICE

If you received a call on your cell phone from Medicredit, Inc. or The Outsource Group, Inc. between January 28, 2010 and July 13, 2015, you may be entitled to compensation as a result of the settlement in the class action lawsuit captioned:

John Prater v. Medicredit, Inc. and The Outsource Group, Inc., No. 4:14-cv-00159 (E.D. Mo.)

What is this lawsuit about? John Prater filed this lawsuit against Medicredit, Inc. and The Outsource Group, Inc. ("Defendants"), alleging that Defendants violated the Telephone Consumer Protection Act ("TCPA"), 47 U.S.C. § 227. Defendants deny Mr. Prater's allegations, but have agreed to a settlement.
Who is included? The settlement includes: All persons and entities throughout the United States (1) to whom Medicredit, Inc. and/or The Outsource Group, Inc. made or caused to be made one or more telephone calls, (2) directed to a number assigned at the time of the call(s) to a cellular telephone service (whether the number was assigned to the person receiving the call or not), (3) by using an automatic telephone dialing system and/or an artificial or prerecorded voice, (4) from January 28, 2010 to July 13, 2015 and (5) for whom Medicredit, Inc., The Outsource Group, Inc. and/or the Released Parties did not have a valid consent for such call or calls at the time thereof.
What does the settlement provide? Defendants will establish a settlement fund in the amount of $6,750,000. Out of the settlement fund, Defendants will pay: (1) Damages to Mr. Prater and the class members; (2) the costs and expenses of administrating the class action settlement, which will be approximately $250,000; (3) an award of attorneys' fees not to exceed one-third of the fund, subject to the Court's approval; (4) costs and expenses incurred by Class Counsel litigating this matter not to exceed $35,000, subject to the Court's approval; and (5) an incentive award to Mr. Prater not to exceed $20,000, subject to the Court's approval.
What are your legal rights and options? If you are included, you have four options. First, you may timely submit a claim by mail or online at www.pratertcpasettlement.com, in which case you will receive a pro rata share of the settlement fund after deducting the above-listed expenses. Second, you may do nothing, in which case you will not receive a pro rata share of the settlement fund, but you will release any claim(s) that you have against Defendants related to the claims in this case. Third, you may exclude yourself from the settlement, in which case you will not receive a pro rata share of the settlement fund, but you will not release any claim(s) that you have against Defendants. And fourth, you may object to the settlement.
To obtain additional information regarding the manner in which you may exercise your legal rights and options, please visit www.pratertcpasettlement.com, or contact the Claims Administrator by writing to: Prater v. Medicredit Claims Administrator, P.O. Box 30195, College Station, TX 77842-3195 or by calling 1-866-700-8565.
When is the final fairness hearing? The Court will hold a final fairness hearing on December 7, 2015, at 10 a.m. The hearing will take place in United States District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, Thomas F. Eagleton U.S. Courthouse, 111 South 10th Street, St. Louis, MO 63102. At the final fairness hearing, the Court will consider whether the settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate and, if so, whether it should be granted final approval. The Court will hear objections to the settlement, if any. The Court may make a decision at that time, postpone a decision, or continue the hearing.

No. 8 The Carol Burnett Show: The Lost Episodes

DVD COMEDY Channeling memories of a thousand old movie stars, Burnett created wild parodies of lust, despair and rage on her landmark CBS series (1967-78). She's the greatest actress ever to move within the tight confines of a comic sketch. Which is why, you'll note, she prowls. This six-disc set includes 22 episodes from the first five seasons, out of circulation for years. Even if 1939's Ninotchka is a movie reference that now means little, Burnett's impersonation of Greta Garbo's world-weariness exerts its own power of exaggeration. She's like a glamorous bag of sand. (lostcarolepisodes.com)

MOVIE DRAMA Dennis Nash (Andrew Garfield) is hard-working and a great dad. But he can't pay his mortgage, so none of that matters. Soon—too soon—shady real estate broker Rick Carver (Michael Shannon) arrives to foreclose and evict. It seems strange yet rings true when Dennis, with few options, goes to work for Rick doing unto others what was done so heartlessly unto him. If 99 Homes is tough to watch, it's because the brutality is so honest. Shannon and Garfield are terrific foils, but what resonates most is the image of an unequal America we often choose not to see. (Sept. 25, R)

Cookie, don't you ever dare crumble

TV DRAMA Season 2 of the monster hit finds the Lyons still at it, fighting over the family music business. Daddy Lucious, however, insists he'll always be the meat giver. "You all can't eat without me," says Terrence Howard, whose voice hisses out like air from a tire puncture. "All you got is pride, and it's chewy and it's hard to swallow." The constant reversals of fortune in this dynastic feud aren't always clever enough—three weeks in, the show can feel like a tetherball punched clockwise, then counterclockwise. But Taraji P. What our hair says about us, how a morning-show host faced cancer and a chef's journey from trauma to triumph

EDITED BY KIM HUBBARD

Cat Cora Cooking as Fast as I Can

MEMOIR Iron Chef star Cora rose from childhood abuse in small-town Mississippi to culinary fame. In this affecting memoir, she looks back at how cooking both shaped and healed her and how she finally found the recipe for balancing ambition with her need for family. Her book is as warm and comforting as a home-cooked meal.

Joan Lunden Had I Known

MEMOIR Beginning with the moment in 2014 when she learned she had triple negative breast cancer, the Good Morning America host details "the good, the bad and the bald, ugly truth" about battling the deadly disease. Her candid, informative memoir should provide solace and hope—she is now cancer-free—to other patients and those who love them.

Jackie Collins

HER FINAL INTERVIEW

SITTING DOWN WITH PEOPLE JUST DAYS BEFORE HER DEATH, THE BELOVED AUTHOR REVEALED HER DIAGNOSIS—AND SPOKE OF HER RESOLVE TO LIVE JOYOUSLY UNTIL THE END

EXCLUSIVE People EXCLUSIVE

By ELIZABETH LEONARD
Photographs by AMANDA MARSALIS

As she was the first to admit, Jackie Collins relished being in control. So when the bestselling author was diagnosed with stage 4 breast cancer in 2009, she told only her three grown daughters and continued to live life on her own terms: writing five novels, traveling, enjoying her six grandchildren and feeling—thanks to a succession of drug therapies—mostly fine. But after her daughter Rory, 46, learned in May that she too had (stage 1) breast cancer, Collins decided she "couldn't let Rory fight this battle alone—I've got to come out next to her. And it might help save other women's lives."

So it was that on Sept. 14—just five days before her cancer would end her life—Collins, 77, sat down for a candid, emotional interview with People at her Beverly Hills mansion. Jet-lagged from a recent trip to London, where she had shared her diagnosis for the first time with her actress sister Joan and brother Bill, she seemed slightly tired but engaged, wickedly funny and hopeful about the future. "I certainly don't wake up in the morning and think, 'Oh, I have terminal cancer,' because I don't," she said. "I have a chronic disease. We're all going to go at some time. I want people to see me as an example of strength—and doing things my way."

'I want on my gravestone: "She gave a great deal of people a great deal of pleasure"'
—JACKIE COLLINS

How did you first learn you had cancer?

Two years before I actually discovered what it was, I felt a lump. But I thought, 'I'm not dealing with this,' because in my mind I decided it was benign. I've had to deal with losing my mother (to breast cancer), my husband (prostate cancer) and my fiancé (lung cancer), and I did not want to put pressure on everybody in the family. So I happily, happily went day by day. I'm not a stupid woman, and I knew you were supposed to go to the doctor. But I was completely doctor-phobic. I went with one of my daughters once when she had an eye operation, and the doctor was explaining it to me, and I fell in a dead faint on his floor. The only time I ever went to the doctor in my life was when I had my three children. I had always been completely healthy.

'I have this feeling that I was a cheetah or a panther in another life'

Did the lump grow larger during those two years?

They say cancer is silent. It's not silent. Once every day, I'd get this little kind of wavy feeling [where the lump was], and I guess that was it growing over time. If I pressed, the feeling would go away. I still thought it was benign.

How were you finally diagnosed?

On one of my book tours, I found myself limping. I had a full-body scan, and the doctor said, "I don't understand, but we're seeing cancer somewhere, and we need to know the primary place where it came from." And I went, "Ohhh, let me tell you

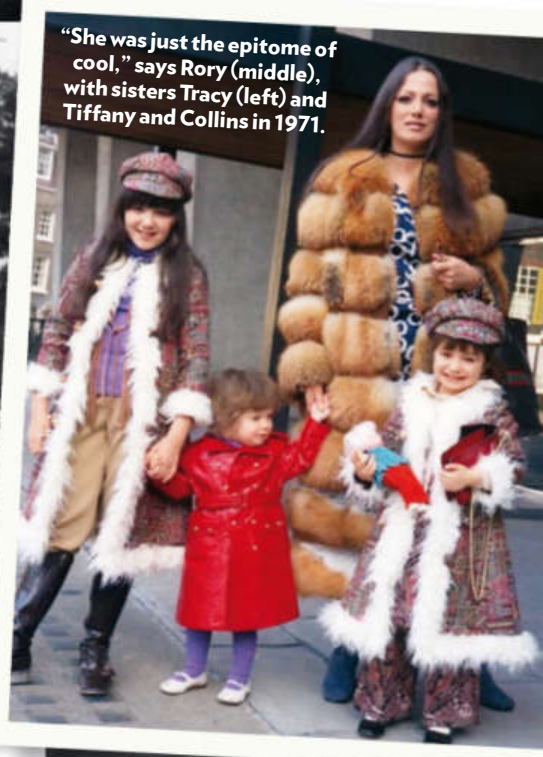

As the middle child, says Collins, "I could do what I wanted."

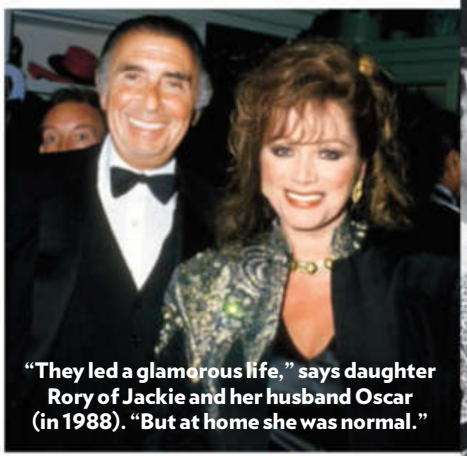

Joan Collins (right, with Jackie in 1983) tells People: "I am completely devastated. She was my best friend. She was wonderful, brave and a beautiful person, and I love her."

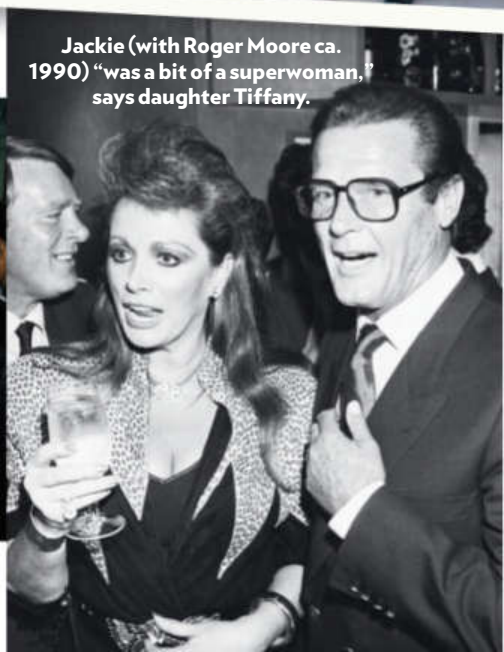

In her youth, "I was a wild one," said Collins. So when she had daughters, "I knew what girls could get up to."

"She was just the epitome of cool," says Rory (middle), with sisters Tracy (left) and Tiffany and Collins in 1971.

"They led a glamorous life," says daughter Rory of Jackie and her husband Oscar (in 1988). "But at home she was normal."

Jackie (with Roger Moore ca. 1990) "was a bit of a superwoman," says daughter Tiffany.

Hollywood's Literary Lioness

AN APPRECIATION

If her characters seemed like clichés, Collins once said, she was just being true to life: "Everybody is a cliché in Los Angeles."

Without Jackie Collins, who died surrounded by family Sept. 19, Bravo would have no Real Housewives of Beverly Hills, or of anywhere. Her breezy, punchy bestsellers, including Hollywood Wives, Hollywood Husbands, Hollywood Kids, Lucky, Chances and more, spun the British transplant's own experiences and observations into a fantasy of wealth, power, sex, clothes, hair and glamour. Collins's style took hold of American entertainment in the 1980s—her sister Joan Collins was the catty, carnal epitome of it on Dynasty—and it has never completely lost its grip.

Has it now, Lisa Vanderpump?

The Bravo show, in fact, didn't impress Collins so much when TV Guide asked her to watch the premiere episode in 2010: "First of all," she said, "no Beverly Hills babe would ever stoop to being called a housewife. How plebeian. How gauche."

There isn't much need to discuss Collins as a literary figure—she was happy enough to have sold 500 million books and seen her most famous titles adapted for TV. She did tell The New York Times that the writers who most influenced her were Charles Dickens and Mickey Spillane. She also said that, when she published The World Is Full of Married Men in 1968, "no one was writing about sex except Philip Roth." As a chronicler of the bedroom, she likely had the more lucrative career.

But, like her sister Joan, Jackie understood that audiences and readers alike love the pleasurable shiver of entertainment delivered by a star. (That's not the same as a brand, either.) She wouldn't present herself in public if she wasn't immaculately styled. "I can never go out for my mail unless I'm done up," she told People. "Otherwise I'm caught by busloads of tourists, screaming, 'Jackie!' " This was tending to the image, but it was also a sign of her enduring love affair with her fans.

"From all over the world, Russia, Poland, Japan, people write me," she told People. "Once a week I'll sit down in front of the TV, and I'll sign a couple of hundred pictures. Personalized and free. I remember being a little girl in London growing up, and I would write Rock Hudson and Tony Curtis, 'Please, can I have an autographed picture?' And when they came in the mail it was, like, such a thrill."

And, when all is said and done, wasn't she thrilling?

—TOM GLIATTO

about this little lump." My poor daughter Tiffany is sitting there, going, "What the f---?! How come you never mentioned it?!" So that was the start of it. I found a wonderful oncologist, who said it was stage 4 and had metastasized to my bones. She also said, "It's a chronic disease, but you can live with it."

What treatments did you receive?

They've given me incredible treatments [in addition to a lumpectomy and radiation, she was on various drug combinations]. A few of the drugs gave me side effects, but they weren't debilitating. I've felt amazing, very energized. Most treatments work for about a year, and then you move on to something else. You know what? You take it day by day, that's what you do. It's just been an incredible journey.

Why did you only tell your daughters?

Well, Tiffany was with me when I was diagnosed, and they tell each other everything, so there was no way around them. Why did I not tell anybody else? Because I didn't want to be on the front of the Enquirer with "two weeks to live." And I didn't want people's sympathy. I think sympathy can weaken you. I don't live my life that way. I took control of the situation. I know it was difficult for my daughters not to be able to talk about it, and they wanted me to tell people, but I didn't want to burden them. They would have been, "How are you feeling, how are you this week?" and all of that…

Do you wish you'd confided in more people?

Looking back, I'm not sorry about anything that I did. I did it my way, as Frank Sinatra would say. No one has ever known until now, when I feel as though I should come out with it. There are two guarantees in life: death and taxes. You have to live your life the way you want to, and that's what I've done up until this point, where I now want to save other peoples lives.

What message do you want to share?

Women should get checkups because it really helps to get diagnosed early. I know we're all told to do it, but some of us are too stupid, and I was one of them. That was my choice and maybe it was a foolish one, but it was my choice. Now I want to tell people it shouldn't be their choice. I also want to give out the message that stage 4 cancer is a chronic disease, and it's not a death sentence. You can live a very positive life.

How do you stay positive?

Your mind controls your body, so you must. I saw how much your mind can control you when I nursed my fiancé [Frank, who died of lung cancer in 2000]. His attitude was very angry. He was very vain and didn't want to live after he lost his hair. Just like Samson. I got him a fabulous wig, and he wouldn't wear it. He died three months later. Unlike my husband Oscar, who built this house for me when he had cancer and it kept him alive for three years. If you have a positive attitude, you can conquer anything.

You just returned from London, where you told your sister Joan, with whom you're so close. How was that?

She was very shocked. She had no idea. But she was great. We were emotional. My brother Bill was there too, and he's fantastic. It was a really good trip. I also had a birthday party for my oldest daughter, Tracy.

Why wait until now to tell Joan?

Because it would have really affected her. I just felt she didn't need it in her life. She's very positive and very social, but I'm not sure how strong she is, so I didn't want to burden her with it.

You're writing your autobiography. What else would you like to achieve?

There's nothing I haven't done that I want to do, so I feel very lucky in that respect. I was a school dropout, and everybody said you can't be a writer, you've got to go to college, you have to do this, you have to do that, and I said f--- it, I'm going to be a writer. Thirty-two books later, here I am.

What are your feelings about death?

As I said, death and taxes happen to everyone. So why should one be frightened of it? Also, I'm a hovering Buddhist. Hovering because I don't chant. It's a very peaceful way of living. . . . Death is peaceful, and maybe you come back as something else and maybe you don't. Now I'll sound very Shirley MacLaine, but I have this feeling that I was a cheetah or a panther in another life and that I was also a black soul singer. Male. So I do believe that you come back as something else or someone else.

Does that belief help keep fear at bay?

Perhaps. I believe in the white light—I

"When I was diagnosed, I told her, 'Mum, I'm sorry but I'm telling everybody,'" says Rory.

Collins adored her six grandchildren, who called her "Jac Jac." Says Rory: "We're very tight-knit. She wanted to protect us all from pain."

"One of her big things with us is that girls can do anything," says Tiffany of Jackie (with Joan and brother Bill after winning an OBE award in '13).

'I very much believe in not mourning someone's death, but celebrating their life'
—JACKIE COLLINS

Jackie's daughters (including Tiffany, at home with her on Sept. 3) told People: "She left us with an extraordinary legacy of love and creativity. . . . It's hard to imagine life without her, but we all feel she is with us in so many ways."

think when I had my first daughter I saw it. I remember it very distinctly. It was like a tunnel, and the light is waiting for you at the end. I was in so much pain, literally tearing my hair and screaming the place down, so maybe I just decided to take off and then I changed my mind.

When your time does come, how do you want to be remembered?

I want on my gravestone, "She gave a great deal of people a great deal of pleasure."

What brings you the most pleasure?

I love being with my family, just sitting around with them. They're the greatest family, and all the kids are fantastic. I love sitting out by the pool and watching them all play. I also like to read, and I'm a television addict. Ray Donovan is my absolute favorite. Followed by Shameless. Sometimes I meditate. And I have a passion for what I do, and coming out with a new book every year [since the diagnosis] has been great for me.

You seem so close to your daughters (Tracy, 54, Tiffany, 48, and Rory, 46).

I think it's because I was always there for them. I would write all day and then collect them at school. Of course everybody else at the school was terribly English, and they all had station wagons and "Come along, dear, we're going to the country for the weekend," and I'd be rolling up in my Mustang playing the Rolling Stones or something.

How is Rory's health now?

She was diagnosed with stage 1, and she did chemo. She just got the news yesterday that she's completely clear. She's a remarkable woman.

How do you reassure your daughters?

I'm so proud of them. That's a difficult one because I want them to feel secure. I want them to feel [that] whatever happens, I'll always be there. ●

The visit, her first solo royal outing since welcoming daughter Princess Charlotte on May 2, kicks off a busy autumn for the royal mom, 33. There will be "regular engagements between now and Christmas," a Palace source tells People—including an appearance at a Rugby World Cup match on Sept. 26 alongside her husband, Prince William, 33, and a foreign tour in 2016.

In between engagements the on-the-go parents bounce from their London home at Kensington Palace to their country estate Anmer Hall. "They are very much between the two," says the source, with 2-year-old George and 5-month-old Charlotte in tow. As for their commitment to kids' causes, "they both want to raise the profile of these issues," says the source. Adds Fonagy: "She's in this for the long haul. I feel that Kate could do something here that can make a difference to millions of children's lives." ●

Just 24 hours before the premiere of his highly anticipated variety show, Neil Patrick Harris takes a quick break between rehearsals to give his 4-year-old twins, Gideon and Harper, a tour of the set. "It was the first time for them to see it, because a week ago the lighting wasn't complete, so they couldn't be dancing around," Harris says. Maybe a bit longer than "a little while": Harris, married to actor David Burtka, 40, since 2014, has been working nonstop for months. "We're working hard to make it watchable. And if that means that I will risk injury to accomplish that, then welcome to my world."

Despite his many professional successes—Harris is following a whirlwind year in which his starring role as an East German rock singer in Broadway's Hedwig and the Angry Inch earned him his first Tony Award—no number of accolades compares to the joy he's found in being a father to Gideon and Harper, who were born via a surrogate in 2010. The two preschoolers can elicit a performance like no other from their dad. "I'm the bad cop," Harris says with a smile. "They're at that age where they challenge, so every once in a while my voice gets very deep. My bass baritone kicks in, and the dreaded 'time-out' looms over their heads." As for Burtka, Harris calls him "a spectacular parent," and the couple of more than a decade are stronger than ever. "Any relationship is work," he says. "But that's why you commit to someone—in order to grow together."

'My parenting style is more camp counselor than maternal nurturer'
—NEIL PATRICK HARRIS

Now, as Harris gears up for another hectic week of preparation for the show, he tries to minimize time away from his family. "If we are traveling somewhere, the kids come with us when they can," he says. After all, twins can be a terrific antidote to a tough day at work. "There is nothing greater than arriving home and they run down the stairs and jump into your arms and give you a magnificent hug that doesn't end," Harris says of life as a dad. "It takes away any upset of the day." Even a day spent flair bartending. ●

CARLY FIORINA

Republican Rising

NOW NO. 2 IN THE GOP RACE, THE EX-CEO GETS PERSONAL ABOUT COPING WITH TRAGEDY AND TAKING ON TRUMP

By SANDRA SOBIERAJ WESTFALL

FACE-OFF Will Fiorina (on Sept. 16) support Trump if he wins? "It's a hypothetical," she demurs.

Starting work as an AT&T sales rep in 1980 with a freshly minted M.B.A., Carly Fiorina had to take her first business meeting in a strip club. Another time, she says, her boss introduced her to a client as "our token bimbo." So when, three decades later, Republican presidential front-runner Donald Trump mocked her—"Look at that face! Would anyone vote for that?" he said in Rolling Stone—Fiorina, 61, shrugged it off. "Her reaction was, 'This ain't the first time. They're either insulting you or flattering you,'" says her best friend Deborah Bowker. Fiorina says her husband, Frank, "just laughed. Because he saw an opportunity."

And how. Within days, "Look at this face" was a Fiorina campaign ad ("Ladies…look at all of your faces, the face of leadership"), and by the time Trump, in the Sept. 16 debate, tried flattery—"You have a beautiful face," he assured Fiorina—the wind was at her back. A postdebate CNN poll had her leapfrogging 14 GOP candidates—all men—to second place. And while she revels in "playing this game as equals, by the same rules as the men," the former Hewlett-Packard CEO knows she faces increased scrutiny as a female candidate. For all her sharp attacks on Hillary Clinton's record, Fiorina admits "enormous admiration and empathy" for the Democratic front-runner, saying, "Hillary's smart and hardworking." Trump's comments, she adds, "missed the point. Whether a man thinks you're homely or beautiful, it's not a topic of conversation when a woman is trying to do a job—whether that's president of the United States or secretary."

SUCCESS AND STRUGGLES
1. Fiorina with stepdaughters Lori Ann (left) and Tracy in 1985. 2. She and husband Frank (in '97 with pup Sammy) tried to have kids of their own, but it "wasn't God's plan," the Virginia resident wrote in her memoir. 3. She ditched her postchemo wig in 2009 when she launched her losing bid for the Senate.

Fiorina didn't always have that confidence. A self-described "goody-two-shoes middle child" of a federal judge father and a painter mom, she overcame her shyness through her family's moves and a job as a temporary secretary at Hewlett-Packard she took to help with her Stanford tuition. Then her smarts—"and the hardest work," says Bowker—sent Fiorina through the glass ceiling at Hewlett-Packard, where in 1999 she became the first woman CEO of a Fortune 20 company.

'I've had my share of criticism. But life is measured in love, and I've been fortunate'

But setbacks followed. Fiorina was fired as CEO in 2005 after what she describes as "a boardroom brawl" and battled breast cancer through four excruciating surgeries. Most painfully, in 2009 her stepdaughter Lori Ann, who had struggled with drug addiction for years, died of an overdose at age 35. Fiorina leaned on her Christian faith and her 30-year marriage to Frank, 65, a former AT&T exec. "I've been tested," she says. Whatever comes of this campaign, Fiorina says her past struggles are what remind her that "politics and policies are not sport but impact people's lives in real ways." And her present joys—like iPhone "emoji orgies" with two step-granddaughters who call her Cici—buoy her through the grueling days. "All of us candidates will be revealed over time and under pressure," she says. "And then the voters will decide." ●

She worked the Milford, N.H., Labor Day parade on Sept. 7.

Allison Williams & Ricky Van Veen WESTERN WEDDING

Saratoga, Wyo. Sept. 19
The Girls star (in Oscar de la Renta couture) and Van Veen take a newlywed stroll through the rolling plains

Girls star Allison Williams has had a year of emotional ups and downs. She originally postponed her wedding to CollegeHumor cofounder Ricky Van Veen after her father, former NBC Nightly News anchor Brian Williams, admitted to embellishing some of his stories back in February. But on Sept. 19 the couple put the drama behind them and said "I do" in the picturesque town of Saratoga, Wyo. "It was stunning," a source tells People of the evening ceremony held on the grounds of Brush Creek Ranch. And it was a major Hollywood moment for the small town, as a host of A-listers turned out. Tom Hanks officiated, and Katy Perry, who serenaded the couple, and John Mayer "held hands and sat next to each other during the ceremony," says the source. "Everyone enjoyed the ranch life." The intimate affair, says another source, "fit the couple. It was beautiful." –JANINE RAYFORD RUBENSTEIN with Pernilla Cedenheim

A VERY HAPPY REUNION

A Hug Worth Waiting For

AFTER 10 YEARS A KATRINA HERO FINDS THE LITTLE GIRL WHOSE SMILE BECAME HIS LIFELINE

"I want you to understand—you rescued me more than I rescued you." Air Force Pararescueman Mike Maroney had waited a long time to say those words to 13-year-old LaShay Brown. Ten years to be exact—ever since September 2005, when, during Hurricane Katrina's evacuation efforts, he flew LaShay and her family, who'd been trapped in their home for days amid the rising waters, to safety. Overcome with joy, LaShay—who was just 3 years old at the time—had wrapped her arms around Maroney's neck in a heartfelt hug that made a lasting impression. "In my work, you don't do things for the thank-you, you do it because it's the right thing to do," says Maroney, who suffers from PTSD and is in the Air Force reserve. "But you appreciate a thank-you when you get something like that. It changes you."

'I can't believe that a hug meant so much to him' —LASHAY BROWN

Maroney never forgot the bright-eyed little girl whose name he didn't know but who had touched his heart. An Air Force photographer had captured the moment, and he'd carried the image with him ever since—finding inspiration and hope in it during grueling deployments to Afghanistan and Iraq. By 2010, back home in San Antonio, Maroney was determined to find her so he could express his gratitude and tell her how her beaming smile had, for him, become "like a light at the end of the tunnel." He posted the picture online and reached out to the media. Finally, a social media campaign (#FindKatrinaGirl) launched in February this year led to their emotional reunion last month on The Real. "Meeting him was great," says LaShay, who's in the eighth grade and lives with her family in Waveland, Miss. "I can't believe that a hug meant so much to him." Adds Maroney: "I think I need to learn a new language, because English is just not capturing how happy I am right now." —BECKY RANDEL

emily BLUNT
SICARIO

›› It's impossible not to flinch when the bodies pile up, but somehow FBI agent Kate Macer (Blunt) keeps her composure as she slips into the murky world of the fight against Mexican drug cartels. Blunt brings stunning unflappability to the role, though the film (in wide release Oct. 2) "reveals how cheap life has become for everybody," she says. "I don't think I knew enough about it," she adds of the cartels, "the sheer brutality of the imprint that they leave on people's lives."

BEASTS OF NO NATION

›› There's no denying Elba's charm—which is why it's so shocking when he uses it to devastating effect in Beasts. He's earning major Oscar buzz for playing the fiery commandant of a band of ragtag soldiers in an African civil war. The newest recruit, Agu (phenomenal newcomer Abraham Attah), is a young boy. Elba says he wanted to play the "horrible, despicable character" to call attention to the trauma inflicted on child soldiers. Beasts (in theaters and on Netflix Oct. 16) is "an important film," he says. "What happened to this child in this film is happening every day to a lot of people."

alicia VIKANDER & eddie REDMAYNE

THE DANISH GIRL

›› He nabbed an Oscar for last year's The Theory of Everything—could Redmayne do it again? He plays Lili Elbe, a transgender artist who in the 1930s was one of the first people to undergo male-to-female sexual reassignment surgery, while rising star Vikander also shines as Elbe's supportive wife, Gerda Wegener. The script "was just profoundly moving," says Redmayne, who calls the film (in theaters Nov. 27) "a story about love and what it takes to be authentic, what it takes to be yourself."

›› Damon has a blast in a captivating role as a stranded astronaut—think Cast Away with an intergalactic twist—in this space epic (out Oct. 2). While the Ridley Scott-directed blockbuster has plenty of cool effects, its all-star astronauts also went back to basics. "In some of the tighter shots, sometimes it makes sense not to do elaborate wire work," says Damon of faking some of the film's zero-gravity scenes. "You act while you're standing on one foot and moving slowly. It's totally, totally ridiculous, but you can't tell!"

"I was having fun just being a mom," she says, adding that her next role "had to be something extraordinary—it's a life experience for myself and for my boy [son Louis, 5], because he comes with me." Consider TECFIDERA—a pill that has the strength to cut relapses in half.

TECFIDERA is a pill for relapsing multiple sclerosis (MS) that has been shown to cut relapses in half. During a 2-year study, TECFIDERA reduced risk of relapse by 49% compared with placebo. TECFIDERA is also proven to slow the development of brain lesions and delay the progression of physical disability. Over 135,000 people around the world have taken TECFIDERA.* Ask your doctor if you should too.

Tecfidera® (dimethyl fumarate) is a prescription medicine used to treat people with relapsing forms of multiple sclerosis.

Important Safety Information

Do not use TECFIDERA if you have had an allergic reaction (such as welts, hives, swelling of the face, lips, mouth or tongue, or difficulty breathing) to TECFIDERA or any of its ingredients.

Before taking and while you take TECFIDERA, tell your doctor about any low white blood cell counts or infections or any other medical conditions.

What are the possible side effects of TECFIDERA? TECFIDERA may cause serious side effects including allergic reactions, PML, which is a rare brain infection that usually leads to death or severe disability, and decreases in your white blood cell count. Your doctor may check your white blood cell count before you take TECFIDERA and from time to time during treatment.

The most common side effects of TECFIDERA include flushing and stomach problems. These can happen especially at the start of treatment and may decrease over time. Taking TECFIDERA with food may help reduce flushing. Call your doctor if these symptoms bother you or do not go away. Ask your doctor if taking aspirin before taking TECFIDERA may reduce flushing.

These are not all the possible side effects of TECFIDERA. Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088. For more information go to dailymed.nlm.nih.gov.

Tell your doctor if you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant, or breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if TECFIDERA will harm your unborn baby or if it passes into your breast milk. Also tell your doctor if you are taking prescription or over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, or herbal supplements.

For additional important safety information, please see Patient Information on the following page. This is not intended to replace discussions with your doctor.

SANDY HOOK SCHOOL MASSACRE

‘I Will Not Let That Day Define Me’

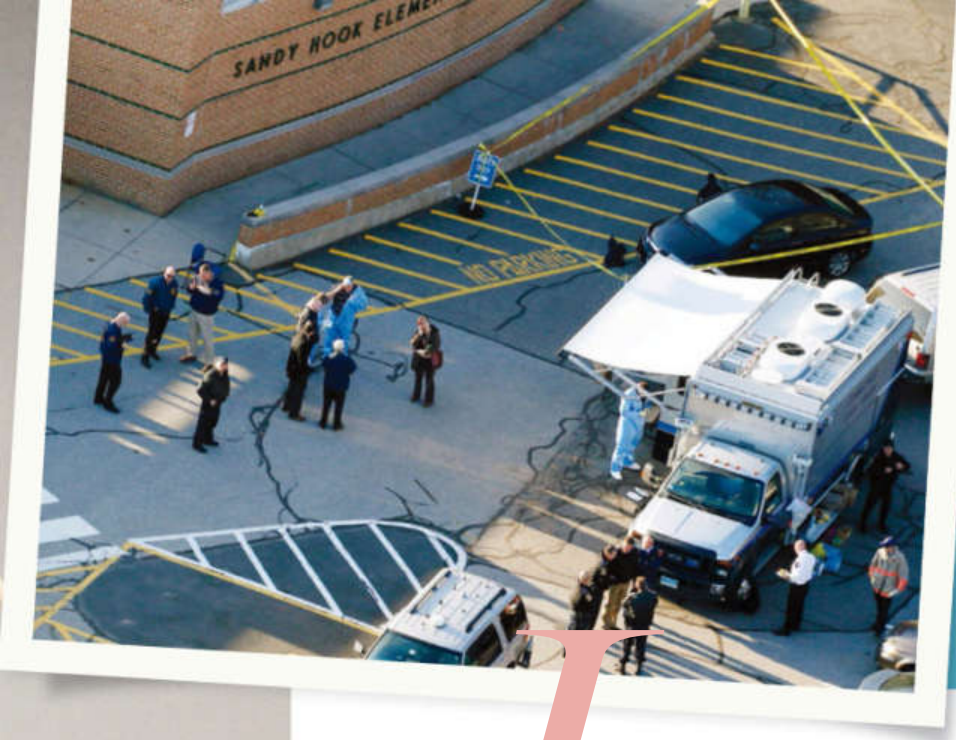

NEARLY 3 YEARS AFTER SHE SAVED 15 FIRST GRADERS FROM A GUNMAN AT THEIR NEWTOWN, CONN., SCHOOL, HERO TEACHER KAITLIN ROIG-DeBELLIS FINDS HEALING AND HOPE

By LIZ McNEIL and SARA HAMMEL

BONDS OF LOVE
“I still have moments where I can’t believe we made it through,” says Roig-DeBellis, with students, from left, Hayden, Lauren, Chelsea and (kneeling) Julia and Julianna. (The children’s parents requested their last names not be used.)

Photographs by ERIC OGDEN

HORROR AND LOSS
The Dec. 14, 2012, attack at the suburban Connecticut school left 20 children and six educators dead. "In the worst moment of my child's life, Kaitlin was with her and loved her," a parent says about Roig-DeBellis.

It's Saturday, but the five fourth graders gathered around Kaitlin Roig-DeBellis don't seem even a little bit bummed that they're spending it with a teacher. Instead there are group giggles, hugs and debates over Justin Bieber and Taylor Swift. At the center of the happy chaos, Roig-DeBellis beams. It's thanks to her heroic efforts on Dec. 14, 2012, that this reunion is even possible. Then a first-grade teacher at Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Conn., Roig-DeBellis quietly packed 15 students into her classroom's tiny 3-ft.-by-4-ft. bathroom to save them from gunman Adam Lanza, who killed 26 at the school that morning. "I did what anyone would have done," she says. "That was my responsibility. I'm their teacher. That's my job."

Nearly three years after that horrific day, Roig-DeBellis, 31, has written Choosing Hope, exclusively excerpted here, to help others in their darkest times. Though she cautions in the book that the account of that day is disturbing, "I have to share my own darkness and what I overcame and what I and my students lived through," she says. "What's hard and dark and scary doesn't have to define us." Now married and the founder of the nonprofit Classes4Classes.org—a website where students post needs for items such as school supplies and other classes fill them—Roig-DeBellis wants to encourage others to choose hope over despair. "Do we continue to focus on the bad, the evil, the terribleness or do we focus on kindness and love?" she says. "We choose the latter."

MOVING FORWARD
"I'm never going to answer why," says Roig-DeBellis of the shootings. "But one question I had to answer was how do I make sure this day does not define my or my students' lives?"

That day began like most days. I had just finished playing a recording of "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'," the cue for my first graders to gather at the front of our classroom for our morning meeting. "Good morning, Fantastic Friends!" I said just before taking attendance. "Good morning, Miss Roig!" they replied. The theme that day was Our Holiday Traditions. [The students] talked about making cookies and visiting Santa and listening for reindeer.

At 9:30 a.m. they hear gunshots.

First comes the initial blast of gunfire, then the sound of shattering glass. The hair on my arms stands up. My classroom is the first one in the building. We are in grave danger, I think, sitting targets. I jump up, run to the door, pull it closed and switch off the lights. I can't lock the door. My keys are clear across the room, on top of my desk, and there's not time to fetch them. If we're going to live, we have to find a hiding place. Fast. My students don't seem to understand what is happening. One, the little girl I call our fashionista, because she wears things like leopard prints and leggings, stands there smiling. I can't tell if she is somehow obliv-

If you were called on a cellular telephone by or on behalf of Asset Acceptance, LLC, you may be entitled to receive a payment or debt forgiveness, and your rights may be affected by this class action settlement.

A Settlement has been reached in a class action lawsuit alleging that Asset Acceptance, LLC ("Asset" or "Defendant") violated the Telephone Consumer Protection Act ("TCPA"), by calling, or allowing other companies to call on its behalf, cell phone numbers between April 17, 2009 and September 4, 2014, using a dialer without prior express consent. The Court did not decide in favor of Plaintiff or Asset. Asset denies any violation or liability. To settle the case, Asset will provide a Common Fund totaling $1,000,000.00 composed of an $800,000.00 Debt Forgiveness Component and a $200,000.00 Cash Component.

The case is known as Fox v. Asset Acceptance, LLC, Case No. 14-CV-00734-GW-FFM (C.D. Cal.) ("Action"). The "Class" includes all persons whose cellular telephone numbers were called using a dialer by Asset, released parties, or a third party dialing company on behalf of Asset or the released parties, without consent, during the period from April 17, 2009 through September 4, 2014.

Subject to final Court approval, each Class Member who submits a valid Claim Form will be entitled to recover from the Common Fund. A Class Member's recovery depends on how much, if any, the Class Member owes Asset. If the Class Member owes Asset no money, then that individual is entitled to a pro rata share of the $200,000 Cash Component of the Common Fund, up to $1,500. Payment amounts under the Cash Component will vary based on the total number of valid Claim Forms received from Class Members who owe Asset no money to Asset, and after deducting the incentive award of up to $2,500 that will be paid to the Class Representative. However, if the Class Member owes Asset any amount of money, then that individual shall be entitled to a one-time forgiveness of the money owed to Asset in an amount that is the lesser of (1) the Individual Debt Forgiveness Settlement Amount calculated by dividing $800,000 by the number of valid Claim Forms received from Class Members who owe Asset money, (2) the amount that the Class Member is identified as owing to Asset in its records, or (3) $1,500. It is not known how many Class Members exist, but over 387,000 potential Class Members are expected to be notified of the settlement by mail.

To make a claim or find out more about this settlement, please visit the settlement website at www.FoxTCPASettlement.com, or call 1-844-271-4787. On the settlement website, you may submit a claim online or download and print a Claim Form that you can mail in. Claim Forms must be submitted by December 28, 2015. You may also check the settlement website to determine what amount of money, if any, you are alleged to owe to Asset, and learn about the procedure to dispute the amount or existence of the alleged debt for purposes of this settlement.

If you do not want to be a part of the Settlement, you must exclude yourself no later than December 28, 2015 by following the procedure outlined in Class Notice which is available on the settlement website. Unless you exclude yourself, you will be bound by any final judgment in the action, including the release of Asset and others from any claims arising out of or related to this Settlement. If you want to object to the Settlement, you must mail an objection postmarked no later than December 28, 2015 by following the procedure outlined in the Class Notice. At your own expense, you may have your own lawyer appear in Court for you if you like. If you hire your own lawyer, that lawyer must submit a Notice of Intention by following the procedures outlined in the Class Notice.

The Court has scheduled a Fairness Hearing for February 18, 2016, at 8:30 a.m., in Courtroom 10 of the U.S. District Court, Central District of California, 312 North Spring Street, Los Angeles, CA 92012 to decide: (1) whether to approve the Settlement; (2) Class Counsel's request for attorneys' fees and litigation costs of up to $262,500.00 to be paid by Asset separately of the Common Fund; and (3) a $2,500 payment to the Class Representative (Ann Fox) to be paid from the Cash Component of the Common Fund. Upon final approval, the action will be dismissed with prejudice and the Class Members who do not request exclusion will have released Asset and related entities as detailed in the Settlement Agreement (available at www.FoxTCPASettlement.com).

ious to the sounds or scared frozen. Evil is coming for us and there is nowhere to go.

Where can we hide? The bathroom—a tiny first grade-sized lavatory with only a toilet and a toilet paper dispenser inside. It is our only chance. I turn to my students, who look up at me with pleading eyes. "Into the bathroom. Now!" I say. At first they protest. "What do you mean, Miss Roig?" Shots are being fired outside our classroom door. "Hurry," I say, pushing them into the tiny space.

I begin lifting students and piling them inside. I place one student, then two, then three, on top of the toilet and hoist up my littlest girl and sit her on the toilet paper dispenser. We are all crushed together with not even enough room left to take a deep breath. I reach out to pull the door closed, but the door isn't there. In my rush to save us, I didn't even notice. The door opens into the bathroom. We are blocking it with our bodies. I feel myself beginning to panic. One by one, I pick up the students who are blocking the door and move each one behind it until I am finally able to push it closed. I can't help but wonder if, by trapping us in the bathroom, I have just sentenced us to certain death.

SWEET REUNION "It's awesome," says Chelsea (far right) of seeing Roig-DeBellis. "I hugged her as soon as I saw her." Says Roig-DeBellis: "I'm so incredibly grateful every time I see them."

'It's just happiness every time I see my kids. We have so much fun together'
—ROIG-DeBELLIS

Outside they hear voices.

Someone shouts "Shooter, stay put!" Then, ear-splitting, rapid-fire shots, like a machine gun. di-di-di-di-di-di-di-di-di-di-di-di over and over again. My students stay perfectly quiet. They understand that someone very bad is searching for us. With the inescapable sounds of carnage happening around us, my little ones are feeling desperate. My fashionista begins to cry. I cup her face in my hands and look into her teary eyes. "We're going to be okay," I promise. The boy who straddles the top of the toilet is shaking so hard that he accidentally flushes. Once, then again. We all hold our breath. My kids want out of this sweltering sealed-up box we're in. "I'll lead the way," one of the boys whispers. "I know karate," says another. "No," I say gently. "There are bad guys out there and we need to wait for the good guys to come." Then, because I believe that death is imminent, I tell them how much they have meant to me. "I need you to know that I love you all very much," I say. "Anyone who believes in the power of prayer needs to pray right now," I say, "and anyone who does not needs to think really happy thoughts." The shooting continues. Now I am prepared to die.

The school suddenly turns quiet.

I wonder if the gunman is lurking outside the door, waiting for us to feel safe enough to come out of the bathroom and fall into his trap. I worry that we may run out of air. My worst fear is that I will see my class murdered before I die and I won't be able to stop it.

An eternity passes. The bathroom is stifling. Then, from the other side of the wall, comes the voices of people who are barking orders. "Don't look up." "Don't open your eyes." "Walk quickly." Oh my God. Is there more than one shooter? A knock comes at the door and we stiffen with fear. "Ask who's there," I whisper to one of my students."Who is it?" my little guy asks. I can hear the quiver in his voice. "Hey little fella," someone replies. "We're hear to help you. Unlock the door." No way, I think. A badge is slipped under the door. It looks fake, like a play badge that one of my students might wear. "This doesn't look real," I say. "If you are the police and you're here to help us, then you should have the key to this door. Or you should be able to get it." A few more minutes pass by before I hear the rattle of keys. The tenth key works. I see an army of uniforms. The good guys are here.

In the weeks after the massacre, she and her students struggle through grief and nightmares. They reunite at one of the student's homes six months later.

I couldn't wait to see my little angels again. I longed to see their bright eyes, hear their tinkling giggles. I watched in awe as my sweet first graders, all of them dressed in bright summer colors, ran barefoot through the grass and splashed in the kiddie pool. They looked so carefree. Every night I'd prayed for them to be able to be happy-go-lucky kids again. Prayers answered, I thought, walking towards them. They squealed when they saw me. "Miss Roig is here!" Stretching and straining their little arms, and clamoring to get as close as they could, my students surrounded me for a big group hug. The last time we were huddled so closely together was in the classroom bathroom. We had been through something together that no one else could possibly understand. And through that, we had forged an unbreakable bond. ●

If You Bought Products at a Michael Kors Outlet Store You May Be Eligible for a Payment from a Class Action Settlement

A Settlement has been reached in a class action lawsuit concerning the labeling and marketing of merchandise sold in Michael Kors Outlet Stores during the period July 25, 2010 through July 25, 2014. The lawsuit alleges that Michael Kors deceptively and misleadingly labeled and marketed merchandise that it sells at its Michael Kors Outlet Stores, including by using allegedly misleading price tags on its Michael Kors Outlet Products, which Plaintiffs claim resulted in damages to Plaintiffs and the Settlement Class. Michael Kors maintains that its marketing and labeling is not deceptive or misleading, and is entirely proper and permitted by law.

Who's included?

You are included in the Settlement Class if between July 25, 2010, and July 25, 2014 you purchased at least one item at a Michael Kors Outlet Store that was sold with a price tag showing both an "MSRP" (Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price) and an "Our Price." These items do not include watches, jewelry, fragrances, eyewear or any other product that did not have a price tag that showed both an "MSRP" and an "Our Price." The Settlement Class does not include directors, officers or employees of Michael Kors, its parents and subsidiaries, or any entity in which Michael Kors has a controlling interest.

What are the Settlement terms?

Michael Kors has agreed to establish a Settlement Fund of $4,875,000 from which Settlement Class Members will receive payments. Individual payment amounts cannot be determined at this time and will be based on a number of factors, including the number of Settlement Class Members who submit a valid Claim Verification Form and the amount of the Settlement Fund available for distribution. Michael Kors has also agreed to change the labeling of its price tags of certain items in its outlet stores.

How to get a payment.

To receive a payment, you must submit a Claim Verification Form online at www.MichaelKorsOutletSettlement.com or by mail. If you would like to submit the form by mail, you may request one by calling 1-866-879-7386. Your Claim Verification Form must be fully completed and submitted online or postmarked if by mail no later than 30 days after the Court grants Final Approval in order to receive a check in the mail for your share of the Settlement.

Your rights may be affected.

If you do not want to be legally bound by the Settlement, you must exclude yourself from the Settlement Class. Your request to exclude must be postmarked no later than December 8, 2015. If you do not exclude yourself, you will release your Michael Kors Outlet Store pricing claims and will not be able to sue Michael Kors for any claim relating to the lawsuit. If you stay in the Settlement Class, you may object to it by December 8, 2015. For further information on how to exclude yourself or object to the Settlement, please visit the website, or call the phone number, listed below.

The Court will hold a hearing on January 7, 2016, to consider whether to approve the Settlement and a request for Service Awards of $5,000 each for the Plaintiffs and attorneys' fees of up to 30% of the Settlement Fund, along with the reimbursement of expenses. You may appear at the hearing, but you are not required to attend. You may hire your own attorney, at your own expense, to appear or speak for you at the hearing.

Do not contact Michael Kors or the Court for information.

All capitalized terms herein have the same meanings as those in the Settlement Agreement.

MARC MEYER

Queso Fundido

THE EXECUTIVE CHEF OF ROSIE'S RESTAURANT IN NEW YORK CITY SHARES A DELICIOUSLY DIPPABLE RECIPE

- 1 tbsp. canola oil
- ½ cup thinly sliced white onions
- ½ cup thinly sliced poblano peppers
- Salt to taste
- 1 tbsp. chopped fresh oregano
- 2 cups grated Muenster cheese
- 2 cups grated Monterey Jack cheese

1. Preheat broiler on high.
2. Heat oil in a large skillet over high heat. Add onions, peppers and salt, and sauté until tender, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat, and fold in the oregano.
3. In a large, shallow baking dish, distribute the onion and pepper mixture evenly and cover with the grated cheeses.
4. Broil until cheese is melted, bubbly and browned on top, about 4 to 5 minutes. Serve hot with tortilla chips, warm corn tortillas or sliced chorizo.

Serves: 4
Prep time: 10 minutes
Cook time: 10 minutes

Expert Tip!
If you want to make the dish a little spicier, top the warm queso with pickled jalapeño slices or pico de gallo, Meyer recommends.

BOBBY FLAY

Carrot Cake Pancakes

THE CHEF AND AUTHOR OF BRUNCH @ BOBBY'S COMBINES BREAKFAST AND DESSERT INTO ONE SWEET DISH

- 1½ cups all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- ½ tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. pumpkin-pie spice
- ½ tsp. fine sea salt
- 2 large eggs
- 1½ cups buttermilk
- 3 tbsp. melted unsalted butter
- ½ tsp. pure vanilla extract
- 1 cup loosely packed, finely grated peeled carrots, patted dry on paper towels
- 1 tsp. grated orange zest
- ¼ cup finely diced candied ginger
- ¼ cup finely chopped toasted pecans or walnuts

1. Whisk together the flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, pumpkin-pie spice and salt in a large bowl. In a separate large bowl, whisk together the eggs, buttermilk, butter, vanilla, carrots and orange zest until smooth. Add the wet ingredients to the flour mixture, fold in the ginger and pecans, and mix until just combined. Cover and refrigerate for 30 minutes.
2. Heat a large cast-iron griddle or nonstick pan over medium heat. Brush with butter and continue heating until the butter begins to foam. Drop ¼ cupfuls of batter onto the griddle. Cook until bubbles start to form and burst, about 2 minutes. Flip and cook to set the other side, another 1 to 2 minutes. As the pancakes are ready, put them in a single layer on a parchment-lined baking sheet, and keep warm in the oven until ready to eat. Serve with warm maple cream cheese syrup (see right).
Makes: 14 pancakes Prep time: 20 minutes, plus chilling
Cook time: 10 minutes

TOP IT OFF

MAKE FLAY'S 5-MINUTE MAPLE CREAM CHEESE SYRUP

Preheat oven to 250°F. Using an electric mixer, beat 3 oz. softened cream cheese until smooth. Gradually add 1 cup pure maple syrup, and whip for 1 minute until combined. Transfer to an oven-proof bowl, and bake until mixture is warmed through.

CANDICE KUMAI

Caprese Pesto Pizza

THE AUTHOR OF CLEAN GREEN EATS OFFERS A 'DELICIOUS, NUTRIENT-DENSE' SPIN ON THE TAKEOUT FAVORITE

- 1 lb. refrigerated regular or gluten-free pizza dough
- All-purpose flour, for dusting
- 2 tsp. extra-virgin olive oil
- ⅛ tsp. sea salt
- ⅓ cup Kale Pesto (see below)
- 1 (8-oz.) package sliced fresh mozzarella
- 2 medium tomatoes, thinly sliced
- 4-6 basil leaves, torn

1. Preheat the oven to 400°. Remove pizza dough from the fridge, and let it come to room temperature for 20 minutes. Sprinkle a clean work surface with flour, and roll out the dough into a flat circle or oval, about ¼ in. thick. Place the dough on a parchment-lined baking sheet, brush with olive oil and sprinkle with sea salt.
2. Spread pesto sauce evenly on the pizza, leaving about a 1-in. border around the outer edge of the crust. Top with the mozzarella and tomato slices. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes, or until the sides are golden and crisp to the touch.
3. Remove the pizza from the oven, and top with fresh basil and more sea salt, if desired.

Introducing
Zoë Madison & Blake Everleigh Zegers
BORN
Aug. 17, 2015

KEVIN ZEGERS

Double Duty

KEVIN ZEGERS HAS NEVER BEEN happier to be between jobs. "I don't know how one person could physically raise twins on their own," says the Gracepoint and Gossip Girl actor, 31. Spending his first month as a dad in Los Angeles with his wife, Jaime Feld, 36, and their fraternal twin girls Blake Everleigh and Zoë Madison, he learned, "There's just not enough time or hands to do everything that needs to be done. So it's nice that my wife and I are doing as much as we can together." The family time is particularly special for Zegers since he spent his first five days as a father with Blake (his older daughter by two minutes) in the hospital's neonatal intensive care unit because of her birth weight (4 lbs. 5 oz.), while his wife was on bed rest—and caring for Zoë—on a different floor of the hospital. "I would go up to the NICU to feed Blake and FaceTime my wife so she could see her," says Zegers. The couple waited three days to choose which girl would have which name. "One day we decided Blake was Blake," says Zegers. "She had such a determined look on her face. She was this little engine that could." Now at home, Zegers says his daughters are already showing their differing personalities. "Zoë is like a little Buddha. She's a happy, chubby baby. And Blake looks like she's thinking about something all the time," he says. "They are obviously sisters, so they look similar, but they are very different babies."

—PATRICK GOMEZ

"I'm looking forward to them seeing the world," Zegers says of daughters Zoë (top) and Blake.

IN SYNC "My stunt double Ky Furneaux (left) and I have been friends for years and live together while filming in New York, so it's easy for Ky to make extra of the food she eats for me," says Alexander.

The Verdict

"Overall Jaimie is a very clean eater," says dietitian Keri Glassman of NutritiousLife.com, who praises her mix of protein powder and almond milk for an "easy and healthy breakfast." Glassman also adds that she is a huge fan of snacking when done properly. "Jaimie eats the perfect type of nutrient-dense food that makes you eat less later in the day," says Glassman. "With a little tweaking to her portions, like fewer almonds, it can anchor her health."

Selena Gomez

THE HOTEL TRANSYLVANIA 2 STAR AND SINGER, 23, RELEASES HER NEW ALBUM REVIVAL ON OCT. 9

Last concert
Taylor Swift. Obviously I've seen every tour she's done, but this one was insane! It's crazy because we're in such different places in our lives, and we've been so consistent [with our friendship]. I'm just so thankful for her, you know? It's rare to have that.

Last guilty pleasure
I like to binge-watch TV. It's actually exciting to be able to veg out and just do that. I love [Inside] Amy Schumer, Portlandia and Scandal, of course. Can't wait for Empire to come back. It's about time!

Last fashion disaster
Yeah, at the VMAs, my nipple covers were showing. That was so embarrassing, but you live and you learn. It's unrealistic to convince people that I look flawless all the time. That's ridiculous.

Last time I was starstruck
Rachel McAdams and I actually walked into the same acting lesson. She's so pretty without makeup! I didn't know what to do. I just froze.

Last splurge
A little Givenchy purse. I definitely love being able to earn it in a way. There's something satisfying about finishing something and treating yourself. I think everybody should do that, even if it's just a nice dinner.
